Five Great Things To Do In Hawaii

(NAPSA)—A growing number of travelers are saying “aloha” to Hawaii not only because of the island’s natural beauty, but because of the many money-saving packages being offered. Here’s a list from the experts at Travelers Advantage of the top five things you can do on your next trip to this tropical American paradise.

1. Hike Diamond Head (Oahu): Hawaii’s most recognizable landmark also provides an ideal perspective for first time Oahu visitors. This easy 3/4-mile hike to the top of Diamond Head leads to a sweeping panoramic view overlooking Waikiki and Honolulu in one direction and out to Koko Head in the other.

2. Watch the Sunrise from Haleakala (Maui): Watching the sun crest the horizon from atop a 10,023-foot dormant volcano is like watching life begin anew. This incredible spectacle of nature’s colors and unusual flora is well worth the early morning rise. But dress warmly—it gets chilly.

3. Sail the Na Pali Coast (Kauai): The majestic Na Pali Coast State Park draws visitors from around the world with its majestic coastline and the mystique of its natural beauty and heritage. Experience an unbeatable view of the fluted sea cliffs, green valleys and white sand beaches. For more information visit www.kauaisatours.com.

4. Take the road to Hana (Maui): There’s no reason to rush to get there. Reaching Hana isn’t the goal. It’s the journey to experience the remote natural beauty of island life. Don’t miss the seven pools at Oheo, the charm of Huelo, the windsurfing at Hookipa or the last outpost at Kaupo.

5. Learn to Surf in Waikiki (Oahu): The more adventurous can learn the exhilarating sport of surfing at one of Oahu’s most public beaches.
