Auto Supplier, Employees Join To Fight Hunger

Faurecia Unites with Employees for Local Service—targets the challenge of hunger in communities across North America. In addition to their financial support, Faurecia volunteers contributed approximately 650 hours of service at food banks across a area of 10,000 employees across North America.

Through the FUELS project, Faurecia donated more than 148,000 pounds of nonperishable items to food banks in North America in its first year. Its objective is to make an impact in the neighborhoods and communities where the company has a presence.

Faurecia specializes in automotive seating, emission control technologies, interior trim and exterior trim and other exterior and interior products across its 39 locations in the U.S., Canada and Mexico.

Building on the success of the 2010 initiative, FUELS has announced that its 2011 effort will again consist of food collection, volunteerism and financial support.

As the school year begins, parents of youth with diabetes are encouraged to follow these tips from the NDEP School Guide to help ensure their children's safety and well-being.

Take action. Notify the school right away that your child has diabetes. Allow the sharing of medical information to keep your child safe and provide up-to-date emergency contact numbers to the school.

Work with your child’s health care team to develop a “Diabetes Medical Management Plan.” This plan outlines the medical orders for your child. It should be signed by the health care team and submitted to the school nurse at the start of each school year. An updated plan is needed if there are changes in your child's diabetes care plan during the year. A sample plan is included in the NDEP School Guide.

*Meet with the school nurse and discuss a plan to download a copy of the NDEP’s Guide for Students with Diabetes at www.NDEP-Diabetes.com. As the school year begins, parents of youth with diabetes are encouraged to follow these tips from the NDEP School Guide to help ensure their children's safety and well-being.

The Gift Of Time

Offer your time to save someone time: Collect the groceries, help do the laundry, paint the fence, look after the pets.

The Gift Of Consideration

You can give a gift that shows your consideration of the recipient: Bring over a covered dish of comfort food. Drive her to an important appointment. Knit him a sweater. Make her a winter or summer garden calendar, which are sold directly to the public.

The Gift Of Art

You can give friends and family holiday and other cards, calendars and gifts designed by talented artists such as Brom Wikstrom, who can create beautiful pictures with their mouths or feet.

His work has been exhibited from New York to Shanghai, Vienna to New Delhi, and he’s a Washington State Arts Commissioner. Wikstrom has also been commissioned to do greeting card designs for a major soft drink company.

Watch For The Mail

Every year in early October, the work of Wikstrom and the other artists is made available to the general public.

Households across the country get mailings of the products in the form of holiday cards and calendars that they’re invited to purchase. A wide range of other items, including books, wrapping paper, diaries and jigsaw puzzles, are also available.

Learn More

People who do not receive the mailing and wish to buy the products or who want more information can call 1-888-FAU-RELA (328-7352) or visit www.faurecia.com for an especially impressive gift.

For recipes and serving suggestions, contact the National Diabetes Education Program.

Children's Health Update

National Diabetes Education Program

(NAPSA)—A program sponsored by a major international automotive supplier and its employees in helping to feed families in communities across North America.

Launched in September 2010, the program developed by Faurecia in North America, FUELS (Faurecia Unites with Employees for Local Service)—targets the challenge of hunger in communities across North America. In addition to their financial support, Faurecia volunteers contributed approximately 650 hours of service at food banks across a area of 10,000 employees across North America.

Through the FUELS project, Faurecia donated more than 148,000 pounds of nonperishable items to food banks in North America in its first year. Its objective is to make an impact in the neighborhoods and communities where the company has a presence.

Faurecia specializes in automotive seating, emission control technologies, interior trim and exterior trim and other exterior and interior products across its 39 locations in the U.S., Canada and Mexico.

Faurecia recruited its employees to contribute to this cause by collecting the most pounds of nonperishable food items to food banks in North America in its first year. Its objective is to make an impact in the neighborhoods and communities where the company has a presence.

Faurecia specialized in automotive seating, emission control technologies, interior trim and exterior trim and other exterior and interior products across its 39 locations in the U.S., Canada and Mexico.

Building on the success of the 2010 initiative, FUELS has announced that its 2011 effort will again consist of food collection, volunteerism and financial support.

As the school year begins, parents of youth with diabetes are encouraged to follow these tips from the NDEP School Guide to help ensure their children's safety and well-being.

Take action. Notify the school right away that your child has diabetes. Allow the sharing of medical information to keep your child safe and provide up-to-date emergency contact numbers to the school.

Work with your child’s health care team to develop a “Diabetes Medical Management Plan.” This plan outlines the medical orders for your child. It should be signed by the health care team and submitted to the school nurse at the start of each school year. An updated plan is needed if there are changes in your child's diabetes care plan during the year. A sample plan is included in the NDEP School Guide.

*Meet with the school nurse and discuss a plan to download a copy of the NDEP’s Guide for Students with Diabetes at www.NDEP-Diabetes.com. As the school year begins, parents of youth with diabetes are encouraged to follow these tips from the NDEP School Guide to help ensure their children's safety and well-being.

The Gift Of Time

Offer your time to save someone time: Collect the groceries, help do the laundry, paint the fence, look after the pets.

The Gift Of Consideration

You can give a gift that shows your consideration of the recipient: Bring over a covered dish of comfort food. Drive her to an important appointment. Knit him a sweater. Make her a winter or summer garden calendar, which are sold directly to the public.

The Gift Of Art

You can give friends and family holiday and other cards, calendars and gifts designed by talented artists such as Brom Wikstrom, who can create beautiful pictures with their mouths or feet.

His work has been exhibited from New York to Shanghai, Vienna to New Delhi, and he’s a Washington State Arts Commissioner. Wikstrom has also been commissioned to do greeting card designs for a major soft drink company.

Watch For The Mail

Every year in early October, the work of Wikstrom and the other artists is made available to the general public.

Households across the country get mailings of the products in the form of holiday cards and calendars that they’re invited to purchase. A wide range of other items, including books, wrapping paper, diaries and jigsaw puzzles, are also available.

Learn More

People who do not receive the mailing and wish to buy the products or who want more information can call 1-888-FAU-RELA (328-7352) or visit www.faurecia.com for an especially impressive gift.

For recipes and serving suggestions, contact the National Diabetes Education Program.

Auto Supplier, Employees Join To Fight Hunger

Faurecia Unites with Employees for Local Service—targets the challenge of hunger in communities across North America. In addition to their financial support, Faurecia volunteers contributed approximately 650 hours of service at food banks across a area of 10,000 employees across North America.

Through the FUELS project, Faurecia donated more than 148,000 pounds of nonperishable items to food banks in North America in its first year. Its objective is to make an impact in the neighborhoods and communities where the company has a presence.

Faurecia specializes in automotive seating, emission control technologies, interior trim and exterior trim and other exterior and interior products across its 39 locations in the U.S., Canada and Mexico.

Building on the success of the 2010 initiative, FUELS has announced that its 2011 effort will again consist of food collection, volunteerism and financial support.

As the school year begins, parents of youth with diabetes are encouraged to follow these tips from the NDEP School Guide to help ensure their children's safety and well-being.

Take action. Notify the school right away that your child has diabetes. Allow the sharing of medical information to keep your child safe and provide up-to-date emergency contact numbers to the school.

Work with your child’s health care team to develop a “Diabetes Medical Management Plan.” This plan outlines the medical orders for your child. It should be signed by the health care team and submitted to the school nurse at the start of each school year. An updated plan is needed if there are changes in your child's diabetes care plan during the year. A sample plan is included in the NDEP School Guide.

*Meet with the school nurse and discuss a plan to download a copy of the NDEP’s Guide for Students with Diabetes at www.NDEP-Diabetes.com. As the school year begins, parents of youth with diabetes are encouraged to follow these tips from the NDEP School Guide to help ensure their children's safety and well-being.

The Gift Of Time

Offer your time to save someone time: Collect the groceries, help do the laundry, paint the fence, look after the pets.

The Gift Of Consideration

You can give a gift that shows your consideration of the recipient: Bring over a covered dish of comfort food. Drive her to an important appointment. Knit him a sweater. Make her a winter or summer garden calendar, which are sold directly to the public.

The Gift Of Art

You can give friends and family holiday and other cards, calendars and gifts designed by talented artists such as Brom Wikstrom, who can create beautiful pictures with their mouths or feet.

His work has been exhibited from New York to Shanghai, Vienna to New Delhi, and he’s a Washington State Arts Commissioner. Wikstrom has also been commissioned to do greeting card designs for a major soft drink company.

Watch For The Mail

Every year in early October, the work of Wikstrom and the other artists is made available to the general public.

Households across the country get mailings of the products in the form of holiday cards and calendars that they’re invited to purchase. A wide range of other items, including books, wrapping paper, diaries and jigsaw puzzles, are also available.

Learn More

People who do not receive the mailing and wish to buy the products or who want more information can call 1-888-FAU-RELA (328-7352) or visit www.faurecia.com for an especially impressive gift.

For recipes and serving suggestions, contact the National Diabetes Education Program.