

Common Sense Challenge

(NAPSA)—A new survey by SCOTT® Tissue & Towels revealed America's top 10 household challenges, and topping the list are: finding enough space for everyday necessities, saving money, and finding time to clean the house.

Based on these results, people want quick-and-easy solutions to their everyday challenges (54 percent), and some of the solutions to life's challenges may surprise you—like using a banana to shine your shoes. To help, SCOTT®, the brand that has provided commonsense products for more than 100 years, announces the Common Sense Challenge. This national contest celebrates practical solutions to life's everyday challenges. It invites Americans to share their own tips to help solve the nation's top household challenges for a chance to win $50,000.

To enter, people can send in a video demonstrating their practical solution along with an essay explaining what inspired them to discover and share their common-sense solution.
